End: Wednesday, 9 April 2025 at 5:30 pm CAT

Virtual event

Learn from students spearheading innovative sustainability initiatives across the world.

Join the online Student Sustainability Showcase on 9th April, 2025.

Sustainability challenges require innovative solutions, and students play a key role in contributing skills, ideas and initiatives to this important work.

The Student Sustainability Showcase is an exciting platform where students from Responsible Futures institutions will present projects that contribute to sustainability at their universities, colleges and beyond.

Taking place on 9th April 2025 (14:30 - 16:30 British Summer Time), this public event will feature selected student presentations, highlighting creative sustainability initiatives. Attendees will gain insights into student-led change and learn from student leaders on transforming education for sustainability.

The public showcase is part of the Student Sustainability Symposium 2025 open to Responsible Futures institutions, designed to amplify student voices in shaping education for a greener future. Whether you're an educator, student, sustainability professional, or member of the public, this event is an opportunity to learn, connect, and be inspired.

The agenda will include presentations from students from Australia, Bangladesh, Canada, Trinidad and Tobago, the United Kingdom and Zimbabwe. More information will be shared soon.
